A researcher at the Biblioteca Nacional in Havana and a professor at the University of Havana, Fernández Robaina is a prolific author on AfroCuban issues. A tireless anti-racism activist, he is a member of the executive board of the Articulación Regional Afrodescendiente de América Latina y el Caribe, Capítulo Cubano (ARAAAC), Cuba’s main alternative anti-racist organization. He is also a Member of the Cofradía de la Negritud and the Comisión Aponte, a government body, devoted to anti-racist activities. Tomás Fernández Robaina, an openly gay scholar who has always lived in Cuba, will be at Purdue for two days to discuss the history of the progress of two communities, the LGBTQ and The Afro Cuban, especially since the start of the Cuban Revolution.

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

TOMÁS FERNÁNDEZ ROBAINA

HOMOSEXUAL LIFE PAST. AND TODAY.

AFROPEOPLE AND THE SOCIAL CHANGES IN CUBA

*RECEPTION TO FOLLOW IN STAAKS LOUNGE IN SC @ 4

NOV. 2ND | MON. @ 2PM | LAWSON 1142

NOV. 3RD | TUE. @ 3PM | STANLEY COULTER 239

Sponsored by The Department of Spanish and Portuguese, The LGBTQ Center, American Studies, The Latino Cultural Center, The Black Cultural Center, African American Studies and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies