This presentation will discuss several successful health informatics projects in the areas of primary prevention and early disease detection, chronic disease management and decision support.

Dr. Finkelstein is an assistant professor of epidemiology and preventive medicine at the University of Maryland, Baltimore. He is also the director of the Chronic Disease Informatics Group at U of M, and the Associate Director of Health Informatics for the Multiple Sclerosis Center of Excellence, Baltimore VA Medical Center.