

Melissa Dyehouse

Melissa Dyehouse holds a Bilsland Strategic Initiatives Fellowship for her research assistance at the Discovery Learning Center. She is in her second year of assisting with program evaluation for the NSF-funded Indiana Interdisciplinary GK-12 Project at the DLC. Melissa is a doctoral candidate in Educational Psychology at Purdue University with a specialization in assessment. Her research interests include the evaluation of complex educational systems, validity issues in the assessment of diverse populations, and applications of item response theory models to alternate assessments. She received an M.S.Ed. in Educational Psychology from Purdue, a Graduate Certificate in Survey Research from Purdue, and a B.A. in French and Psychology from Indiana University.