Purdue University Students and Faculty - Why Study Abroad?

Study abroad is a crucial part of a well-rounded undergraduate education.

- It makes you much more marketable in the United States, because:
  - companies need people with experiences around the world,
  - who can speak different languages,
  - who can transition easily into other cultures and people who bring to their jobs a sensibility and a sensitivity for other people.

- Study abroad helps young leaders step outside their comfort zones and make themselves more open to misconceptions.

- Many students perceive the good and bad of foreign countries by what they see and hear on the news.
Role of a Program Leader

- Faculty member
- Program administrator
- University representative
- Diplomat
- Cross-cultural broker
- Student advisor
- Mediator
- Advocate
- Travel guide
- Substitute parent
