Dr. Megan Roberts

Dr. Roberts specializes in early intervention for and assessment of children with language delays, Autism Spectrum Disorder and pediatric hearing loss. She has worked across a variety of settings including home-based early intervention, an outpatient pediatric hospital, and an inclusive preschool for children with special needs.

Dr. Roberts also directs Northwestern University's Early Intervention Research Project, which studies how to maximize communication outcomes for young children with language delays.

Community Talk
Supporting Early Communication and Engagement in Toddlers with Autism
April 13th
6PM
LWSN 1142

Academic Talk
The Role of Parents in Early Intervention for Children with Autism
April 14th
10AM
LWSN 1142

All are welcome!

Parking available in the University Street Garage