The HANDS in Autism Center in Indianapolis has a need for senior undergraduate/graduate students with interest and abilities relevant to:

- Coding of videotaped behavioral assessments for a multisite network study regarding parent training interventions
- Literature reviews and contributions to the development of conceptual and data-driven papers in the area of teacher and professional training in the area of autism/dd
- Data input, representation and analyses of archival and current data from a variety of research in the area of teacher and professional training.
- Development of tools and materials utilized in special education classrooms and in training sessions with professionals and caregivers of students with ASD/DD.

The students would be expected to come to our Center at Riley at minimum one day a week for 2 semesters.

Beyond these experiences, I always welcome students be in contact since we have special events and opportunities to shadow a number of times during the year and we would always be happy to have them if possible.

If you have any students interested in such an experience or would have colleagues with such, I would love to have them contact me directly.

Thanks so much,

Naomi

Naomi B. Swiezy, Ph.D., HSPP
Alan H. Cohen Family Scholar of Psychiatry
Associate Professor of Clinical Psychology in Clinical Psychiatry
Director, HANDS in Autism Interdisciplinary Training and Resource Center
Indiana University School of Medicine
1120 South Drive
Fesler Hall 302
Indianapolis, IN 46202-5200
(317) 274-3935
Fax: (317) 274-3885
www.handsinautism.org
http://psychiatry.medicine.iu.edu/autism

Follow HANDS on Facebook: www.facebook.com/HANDSinAutism and Twitter: https://twitter.com/#/HANDSinAutism