PSY 390 Research Opportunity – Fall 2015

Faculty member or graduate student:
Louis Tay (Graduate Student: Cassie Batz)

Description of research area:
Our current research focuses on worker well-being and subjective well-being more broadly. Several of our current projects focus on gender differences in happiness in a work, home, and general life domain.

Description of undergraduate participation:
Undergraduate research assistants will help with the following tasks:
- Designing online surveys
- Managing data
- Coding qualitative and quantitative data
- Conducting literature reviews on various topics related to subjective well-being
- Collecting and coding articles

Research setting:
Data coding, data management, and literature reviews

Number of assistants needed:
2 or possibly 3 depending on hours

Contact information:
Contact Cassie Batz at cbatz@purdue.edu

Additional comments
Preference will be given to students with a GPA over 3.0, but all interested students are encouraged to apply.