December 2015 Luncheon:
Battle of the Bulge

At the December PURA luncheon, Ned Derhammer discussed World War II’s Battle of the Bulge, a major German offensive campaign launched against allied forces on December 16, 1944, through the densely forested Ardennes region of Wallonia in Belgium, France, and Luxembourg on the Western Front in Europe.

Ned served in the United States Air Force for eleven years. He was a pilot for Eastern Airlines for twenty-three years and then attended Purdue for three years, graduating in 1991. Following graduation, he worked at Purdue for ten years, training students on the Flight Simulator. (K. Lembcke)

PURA Slate of Officers for 2016-17

The PURA Nominating Committee submitted John Trott for President-elect for 2016-17. The nomination was accepted at the PURA Executive Board meeting in November.

John Trott is a former director of the Purdue Agricultural Centers and Assistant to the Director of the Office of Agricultural Research Programs. Before taking those positions he served as an Extension Educator. He was awarded a Certificate of Distinction from the Agricultural Alumni Association in 2011. He received BS and MS degrees in agriculture from Purdue.

The PURA by-laws require nominations be published to the membership in January. Additional nominations, with prior approval from the nominee, can be made from the floor at the March monthly meeting of PURA members. The formal vote is taken at the April PURA monthly meeting. (O. Wood)
The PURA Purposeful Living in Retirement Conference will be held on April 20, 2016. This annual spring conference is open to PURA members, their guests, and the local community.

The event will be at the Beck Center on US 52 North. The conference includes five presentations on a wide variety of topics, exhibits of interest to retirees, continental breakfast, and lunch for a nominal fee.

The program content is currently planned to cover topics on New Technology in Audiology, Retirees and the Current Economy, Health Care Reform in 2016, and Senior Moves (a national program available locally which specializes in assistance in downsizing and organizing).

Additionally the popular program from the 2015 conference on Medication Interactions will again be available to attendees. This interactive computer program helps identify side effects related to medications. The program has been expanded to allow for an unlimited number of medications to be assessed per individual.

Look for more information as you look forward to Spring! (O. Wood)

PURPA/Purdue - What's the Connection?

PURPA is the only group whose mission is solely related to Purdue Official Retirees. PURA committee members and leadership are all Purdue retirees who volunteer their time and skills, not to mention their passion, to various roles for PURA.

PURPA welcomes any retiree to assist the organization. Technically PURPA is assigned to Human Resources (HR) with the Purdue administration. PURA appreciates HR's cooperation with PURA, but the organization is independent in the decisions made by the PURA Board for retirees. PURA benefits from the HR assistance of Kate LaMar, who works with any retiree regarding their health insurance before they retire, and if they choose to go on the PURA health insurance plans, after they retire.

Offering retirees a unique health insurance plan is one of the most important ways PURA differs from Purdue. The PURA Benefits Committee negotiates retiree health plans independently from the University. The PURA plans are not the same plans as those for University employees, often not even with the same company. Michele Salla also handles administrative tasks for the PURA Board to function efficiently. She quickly becomes familiar to PURA members via the emails initiating from her to PURA members.

PURPA makes its own decisions regarding budget concerns, and strives to offer programming to members at cost. When PURA meetings are on campus, PURA pays for the use of campus facilities, such as rooms needed in Stewart Center, just like any other University unit. PURA representatives interact with selected university committees to represent our members, such as the Parking and Traffic Committee. For instance, PURA advocated for the free "A" parking permits retirees enjoy.

PURPA benefits the University by helping to canvas its members for United Way participation, which is then reported as a retiree group donation with the total University summary. PURA plans and conducts all our meetings independently of the University. These include PURA activities such as the annual September Kick-Off Lunch, monthly MCL meetings, Purposeful Living Conference, etc. PURA joins other University units in participating at Spring Fling, offering free flu shots to retirees and their spouses, offering health screenings similar to those for employees and appreciates the use of university facilities for these activities. To sum up, PURA is in a symbiotic relationship with Purdue University, but acts independently for the benefit of all things related to retirees.

Purdue is unique among Big Ten University retiree groups in that they welcome all retirees. Another unique feature is that there are no dues.

PURPA is the envy of other retiree groups in the Big Ten because it is the only one to offer independent health care plans; and PURA’s plans are better than most on the market. PURA believes all Purdue (...story continued on page 3) retirees helped to build Purdue and are part of the Purdue family, and PURA strives to continue to promote this concept of loyalty throughout the organization.

Tax Assistance Volunteer Opportunity

The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program through United Way Greater Lafayette is looking for volunteers to assist qualifying working families to prepare their income tax returns. Volunteers receive free IRS certified training and use online software provided by the IRS. Ask questions or visit www.uwlafayette.org/vita for more information.

Purdue’s Treasure Trove

Most Purdue people are aware of the newsworthy collections in the Purdue archives, such as those related to Neil Armstrong, Gene Cernan and Amelia Earhart. But there is so much more.

Honors students dug deep into the Virginia Kelly Karnes Archives to research their publication about the Class of 1904. Angie Klink spent a lot of time there when writing, “The Deans’ Bible”. And the e-archives are a wonderful spot to browse for amateur authors. Imagine viewing a photo gallery of Purdue alums, distinguished and otherwise.

You can also find paintings of George Winter, writings of women’s advocate Helen Gouger, letters between early botanists and works of Frank and Lillian Gilbreth. The Extension Service is notably represented. Warning! Browsing is addictive. (J. Thomas)

Two Thousand Sixteen Boilermaker PURA
Hi Michele,

While reading the PURA Newsletter, your short article and recipe, Westwood Cheese Brumby, generated a flood of old, and pleasant, memories. I believe the following will shed some light on it's origin and history.

Kay and Bob Brumby were originally from Ohio and were great friends of Jack Mollenkopf. In retirement they moved to Naples, Florida, and continued to be friends and supporters of Purdue University, thus the connection to Jane and Steve Beering. Occasionally, Kay and Bob would host a gathering of Purdue Alumni when Steve and Jane were in Naples, and always served her cheese squares, which everyone called 'Brumby Cheese'. They are delicious!

Kay gave the recipe to Jane, who in turn gave it to my wife, Wendy. We, too, always served the now famous Brumby Cheese whenever hosting an Alumni meeting, or party, in West Lafayette. In fact, Wendy still has the original note, and recipe, from Jane and continues to serve those delicious tidbits of obscure Purdue history when we entertain.

Kay was a wonderfully sweet and gracious lady. She was always so tickled, and a bit embarrassed, when Jane or Wendy reminded her of her fame on campus.

Former Executive Director
