I. Criteria for Admission

- B. Each college/school will provide annual input to the Admissions Committee regarding academic preparation and personal background and/or experiences deemed important for success in specific programs of study.
- C. The following additional factors are taken into consideration in the admissions review:
  - Secondary school course expectations as outlined on the Office of Admissions website
  - Overall grades in secondary and/or college-level academic coursework
  - Specific course equivalency requirements for transfer students
  - Grades in academic courses related to the intended major
  - Strength of the Applicant’s curriculum relative to that available
  - Trends in academic achievement
  - Class rank
  - Overall and core academic grade point average
  - SAT and/or ACT scores

- Ability to be successful in intended program of study
- Personal statement/essay
- Personal background and experiences
- Activities, leadership, honors, awards and work experience
- Recommendation(s) provided by secondary school counselor, teacher or other school administrator
- Time of year of application
- Space available in intended program of study

II. Review and Decisions

- A. The Office of Admissions will provide current information regarding application procedures, deadlines and requirements on its website.
- B. Completed undergraduate applications will be divided as appropriate among the Admissions Committee members for credential review and admission decisions, which will be conducted in accordance with the Statement of Policy.
- C. To preserve and assure the integrity of the admissions review and decision process, it is important that there be no third-party influence nor the appearance of such influence.

III. Special Admission

- A. The University recognizes that not all secondary or preparatory schools provide access to the minimum academic expectations for admission to Purdue University; thus, strong overall candidates for admission may present small deficits relative to the expectations. These individuals may be given consideration for Special Admission. The University also recognizes that a small number of students may present deficits but also bring exceptional talents, attributes, achievements or experiences that could significantly enrich the campus community. These candidates also may be considered for Special Admission.
- B. Applicants who may qualify for Special Admission may be identified by the academic unit (college, school, or department) to which they have applied, a non-academic unit/program (e.g., arts, athletics, musical organizations, etc.) or by the Office of Admissions. Such identification must take into account that the Applicant's credentials demonstrate potential to complete an academic program at Purdue. In some cases, such potential will need to be considered along with appropriate and reasonable academic support from the University.
- C. At the conclusion of Applicant review, the Special Admission Review Committee will forward a recommendation to the Admissions Committee. This recommendation may include any pre- and/or post-matriculation academic conditions and/or support mechanisms required of the Applicant and the unit(s) that identified the Applicant for Special Admission.

- D. The Admissions Committee will make the final determination whether to approve an Applicant for Special Admission.
- E. The outcomes of Special Admissions will be recorded and monitored annually by the Office of Admissions.

IV. Appeals

- A. Applicants who are denied admission may submit a written appeal to the Office of Admissions. No third-party appeals will be considered. The appeal must include new and compelling information.
- B. The full Admissions Committee will consider and make the final decision on written appeals.

V. Revocation of Admission

Falsification of any part of the application for admission is grounds for revocation. Further, an offer of admission may be revoked if an Applicant's academic or conduct record seriously deteriorates between the time of admission and matriculation.
