PSY 390 Research Opportunity – Fall 2016

Faculty member & graduate student

Dr. Ximena Arriaga (faculty member)
Christine Daly (graduate student)

Description of research area

My research examines romantic relationships: what makes them work and how they can affect each individual partner. Specific topics include: building commitment and reducing doubts, bolstering attachment security, and regulating partner aggression.

Description of undergraduate participation

Research assistants will do readings on the research areas described above and present published work to the group. They will also collect data, and perform various other research-related tasks.

Research Setting

Purdue campus, and possibly community areas.

Contact Information

Dr. Ximena Arriaga, arriaga@purdue.edu
Christine Daly, daly15@purdue.edu – regarding interest & for copy of application

Additional Information

I am particularly interested in students who want to learn more about pursuing a career doing research in psychology. Interested students will be asked to complete an application. Sophomores with a GPA of 3.0 or higher are especially encouraged to apply.