

Since the pandemic, I have lost my way of making money. I am a very energetic person who always finds work to do. When the pandemic hit, I could not go outside and do the daily activities I enjoyed doing. Tv became boring, working out became repetitive, and I had nothing to do, so I went onto Etsy and started looking for different things I could craft. I am a huge Disney fan; I love everything about Disney except the price. In order to get a pair of Mickey Ears costs $30 at the popular theme park. To make it some myself can cost as little as $7, so I start crafting.

These are the first four ears I have made. In total, I have made 10 ears!

I ordered all of my material online, since stores are closed. I was finally able to do something enjoyable with my life. After I posted my ears on social media, people were offering to buy them off of me. Not only am I staying active (and sane), but I am making money again as well.

Sure, the pandemic isn't ideal, but keeping a negative mindset about it is only going to make us go more insane. I suggest trying to find the things you love doing and modifying them to fit the times we are living in now.
