KEYNOTE PRESENTATION & BOOK TALK
FRIDAY APRIL 8TH | 9:30 - 10:45AM

Promoting Equity and Justice Through Pedagogical Partnership by Alise de Bie, Elizabeth Marquis, Alison Cook-Sather, and Leslie Patricia Luqueño

Members of the Purdue Community are invited to participate in a communal reading discussion. This book integrates theory, synthesizes research, and provides concrete examples of the ways partnership can contribute to more equitable educational systems.

With its focus on bringing together students with faculty and staff, we highly encourage that faculty and staff share this opportunity with and invite students who might serve as partners in enhancing the teaching and learning mission of Purdue.

This first discussion, focusing on the introduction and first chapter will be facilitated by author Alison Cook-Sather.

Copies of the book will be provided for all registrants to the book talk.

To participate in the reading discussion (both the initial discussion with Dr. Cook-Sather and later discussions) as well as register for a public presentation by Dr. Cook-Sather Friday Morning, April 8, please complete the following survey.
