Keynote Presentation

Presented by Karl Gumpper, Team Leader Pharmacy Informatics, Boston Children’s Hospital, and Bona Benjamin, Director, Medication-Use Quality Improvement, Coordinator, Drug Shortages Resource Center, American Society of Health-System Pharmacists

This keynote presentation will highlight some of the infusion pump and pump-related initiatives being coordinated by the American Society of Health-System Pharmacists to help improve patient safety at a national level.

Team Dynamics

Presented by Ben Dunford, PhD, Assistant Professor Management at Purdue University

This session based on your feedback

Dunford has been working with three IPI hospitals to conduct research on nursing workarounds with infusion pumps. The study’s objective is to provide insights on how to help reduce workarounds and improve compliance with patient safety policies. Dunford will share the results of this study, including lessons learned.

In the second part of the presentation, Dunford will present on cross-disciplinary team dynamics. Healthcare teams often include individuals of many disciplines, all of whom may have received different training and use their own terminology. Dunford will present some of the research into these unique dynamics.

Development Update

Presented by Ann Christine Catlin, Senior Research Scientist, Rosen Center for Advanced Computing

AC and her team continue to develop the IPI system in response to user needs. In this presentation, she will show some of their most recent accomplishments and answer some user questions.

Communicating with the C-Suite

Presented by Steven Witz, PhD, Director, Regenstrief Center for Healthcare Engineering

This session based on your feedback

Many members have expressed a need to communicate with the hospital’s central leadership about their area’s operations. What types of information are helpful? How can you show whether the pumps have been a valuable purchase? What level of detail is most useful? You generated these questions and we’ll help you find the answers.
Thursday, May 22, 1:15-2:45 p.m.

Group 1: Clinical Advisories

Meet in the Althea Gibson Room

This group will explore current clinical advisories, discuss the challenges members are facing with them, and look at how they might be made more relevant and meaningful.

Homework will include bringing a list of your hospital’s clinical advisories.

Group 2: Pharmacy-Nursing Communication

Meet in the Jesse Owens Room

Following on Dr. Ben Dunford’s presentation from the morning session, this group will discuss how to bridge the communication gap between pharmacy and nursing.

Homework will include bringing a list of your current methods of this type of communication.

Group 3: Use Case/Case Study

Meet in the Pat Summitt/John Wooden Room

This session is ideal for new users. Using real data from the system, this session will go through a use case scenario and demonstrate the IPI features that could be drawn upon to answer the questions that arise.
Hotel

The Fairfield Inn by Marriott has a block of rooms held for this conference at a reduced rate of $129/night. On the NCAA map on the next page, it is the L-shaped building to the south of the underground parking garage.
