in disability access awareness

Focus Awards Reward Efforts

The work is an expansion of the employment program that promotes access awareness. The program aims to make the campus more inclusive for people with disabilities by providing training and resources for employees. The focus is on creating a culture of awareness and accessibility, ensuring that everyone can participate fully in the university community.

The program includes workshops, seminars, and online resources. It also provides access to assistive technology and accommodations for students and employees. Young people are encouraged to be role models and advocates for accessibility.

The program is supported by the university administration and involves collaboration with various departments and organizations. It is an ongoing effort to create a more accessible and inclusive environment for all.

The work is being implemented in a phased approach, with different initiatives launched throughout the year. The initial focus is on improving physical accessibility, followed by digital accessibility and inclusive practices. The ultimate goal is to create a culture of accessibility that is integrated into all aspects of university life.

The work is in line with national and international initiatives to promote disability access and inclusion. It aligns with the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals, particularly in the areas of quality education and inclusive societies.

The work is receiving positive feedback from participants and stakeholders. It is seen as a valuable contribution to the university's mission and a significant step towards creating a more inclusive and equitable community.
