

Indiana Walnut Council Fall Meeting

Saturday October 5, 2019

Forgey Family Farm 7519 E. 500 North, Falmouth, IN, Rush Co., 46127

[39° 41' 05.86" N 85° 18' 33.52" W]

(In case of directions emergency call Jim McKenna (765) 426-6003)

Mike Forgey and his family, members of the Indiana Walnut Council, DNR and Purdue forestry professionals will demonstrate a variety of forest plantation management practices Saturday October 5th at the Forgey Family Farm near Falmouth, IN.

This property was established 10 years ago in 2009 and completed in large part by 2010. The HTIRC tree improvement program has nearly 50-acres of tree improvement research plantings that are destined to become improved seed sources for black walnut and several other fine hardwood species. Features here will include trainer tree examples, row thinning, and selective thinning.

Lunch will be catered by a great local restaurant, and we will have a bathroom and hand washing station on site.

Enthusiasts.

We will have 4 or 5 four-person plus gators, thanks to the local John Deere dealer in Rushville, for anyone to tour around in if they would prefer, instead of walking the whole route. Attendees can tour the property on their own throughout the day.
