Emergency Twitter Alert!

Purdue recently established an open Twitter account for anyone who would like to receive alerts and information on emergency situations on-campus.

To sign up:
* Sign up on Twitter: Twitter account holders can follow "@PurdueEmergency" to receive up-to-date information on campus emergencies. Note: The account will post only information related to campus emergencies and will mirror information that is being shared via Purdue's text alert messaging.

The Twitter app also allows users to push the notifications from "@PurdueEmergency" to the main screen of their smartphone for immediate notification. Instructions to set up the Twitter app for push notifications is available on Twitter's support site.

Sign up using text messaging:
Type "follow Purdueemergency" to number "40404." The number should confirm, and then texts will

8 Tornado Safety Tips

1. Be proactive: Organize a tornado drill for your organization.
2. Sign up for the Purdue Alert system.
3. Become educated: Ask a campus health and safety expert to come in to speak with your organization.
4. Know where to go: Become familiar with the Building Emergency Plan for your facility.
5. STAY AWAY from windows, doors and mirrors.
6. AVOID buildings with roofs having wide spans and insubstantial shelters.
7. TAKE COVER under sturdy furniture.
8. BRING battery operated radios, laptops, iPhones or iPads with you.

Fire Safety

What can I do to prevent a fire and stay safe?

- Never tamper with or block the building's sprinkler system or fire extinguishers. These are life saving devices that are designed to assist you in getting out only.
- Never remove batteries or disable a smoke detector except to replace them semi-annually.
- Never throw any heat source or cigarette in the trash can.
- Never overload an outlet or run a cord under a rug. If you can, keep electronics off the floors in case of water.
- Know at least two escape routes. Remember to check the windows to see if they can be opened and are not broken or painted shut.
- Keep the hallways & exits free from debris & furniture. Remember to make sure that the emergency exits are clearly marked, visible & doors are unlocked from the inside.
- Keep the hallways & exits free from debris & furniture. Remember to make sure that the emergency exits are clearly marked, visible & doors are unlocked from the inside.
- Learn the building evacuation routes & fire alarm. Remember to never ignore an alarm. It could save your life. Get out quick!
- Sign-up or attend a fire prevention and safety class that Purdue University Fire Department offers. What you learn today can safe your life or someone else's. Take an active role in your safety: it is your life!
policies throughout the Panhellenic community. “My counterpart, IFC Risk Manager, Brett Tsupros, and I work closely together to maintain the safety of our Greek community – we also work as the Student Advisors to RISE, the body of IFC and Panhellenic members who do observations and enforce FIPG policies. I work closely with Jessica Knerr and Jenn Sula to make sure University policy is being enforced correctly and to find new ideas to improve the social aspect of our community.”

“I believe risk management is an important stem to our community; without this function we wouldn’t be able to be social organizations. My passion for risk began when I was in high school and went through some difficult times. Once I began to grow up and process what was going on I realized I never wanted to see others go through these same life events – so when I got to college and joined my sorority I felt as though being our Risk Manager was the job for me. I applied to be our Chapter Life Vice President (which is our acting risk manager) and the RISE Vice President of Internal Affairs at the same time and was elected into both positions. While working on both of those executive boards, I learned a lot about myself and what was important to me. Once these experiences began to come to a close I knew I wasn’t done, so I applied to be the Director of Risk Management for Panhellenic – and here I am today!

“I love working with all of the chapters on their risk policies and how they can improve what they are already doing. You become a Risk Manager because you care about others, and you want to make sure their safety is always protected. I would encourage all of those out there to always be a mini-Risk Manager at all times and keep an eye out for those you care about, that’s the most important step we can all take!”

Melissa Clem is a junior in Krannert studying Supply Chain Management. She is a member of Alpha Xi Delta Sorority and the Director of Risk Management for the Panhellenic Association. Melissa is from Parker, Colorado but grew up on the East Coast and can’t wait to go back! Some of her passions include The New York Giants, snowboarding, her dog Boris, and being with her sisters. “I’m funny, outgoing, and love getting to know new people, so feel free to come talk to me about anything!”

Melissa’s role as Director of Risk Management is to educate and enforce FIPG regulations and University
