This week’s seminar will be held in person at WALC 2007 and presented synchronously through simulcast. The following link can be used for the live stream. Authentication is not required. [WALC 2007 Livestream]

Dr. Christopher Munt, PhD
Director of Inclusive Excellence
Professor of American Studies
Purdue University

“Engaging Diversity, Inclusion, and Equity”

Tuesday, March 2, 2021
4:30-5:30 PM Eastern Time (US and Canada)

Abstract: Dr. Munt is a lecturer in the School of Interdisciplinary Studies and an Inclusive Excellence Specialist in the Division of Diversity and Inclusion at Purdue. He was invited at the request of the Graduate Student Organization to discuss implicit bias in research study designs. The past year has shown us that as a country and as a school, we still have a lot of work to do in the areas of diversity and inclusion. Dr. Munt will explain how implicit bias can affect the interpretation of research findings and the impact this has. He will also address how implicit bias presents in the academic training environment and the unique obstacles and pressures that underrepresented minorities face in attaining higher education.