School of Health Sciences Graduate Scholarships and Awards

Wayne V Kessler Graduate Award
The Wayne V. Kessler Graduate Student Award is given annually to a graduate student who has demonstrated outstanding academic and research performance, as well as teaching potential. The eligibility requirements and selection criteria for this award are:

1. demonstrated academic achievement, research accomplishments, and teaching effectiveness;
2. involvement in local or national professional organizations;
3. skill in communicating research findings through poster or oral technical presentations;
4. minimum grade point average of 3.00;
5. candidates are nominated by a letter from their major professor.

Nomination package:

- letter from the major professor;
- the nominee’s full CV;
- signed permission agreement form
SCHOOL OF HEALTH SCIENCES
SCHOLARSHIP PERMISSION/AGREEMENT FORM

Permission
I hereby grant the Purdue University School of Health Sciences permission to send information about me (such as my academic record; contact information; scholarship application material; financial aid verification; recommendation letters; picture or news release to the media and our School web site) that might be useful to companies, individuals and/or other organizations for the purpose of scholarship or other award selection.

Exception Clause
I do not give permission to release my: ________________________________

Agreement
I further agree that if selected to receive a scholarship or other award, I will:

1) prepare a thank you letter to the donor; and
2) attend any related receptions or events in which the donor(s) will be present.

__________________________________________
Name

__________________________________________
Signature

__________________________________________
Date