Compton Graduate Research Travel Award
College of Health and Human Sciences

The purpose of this award is to support graduate students from the College of Health and Human Sciences who have been selected to present research findings in a poster or oral format at a regional, national, or international conference. The award is in honor of Dr. Norma Compton’s 14 year service as the Dean of the School of Consumer and Family Science. The goals of this award are to promote the dissemination of the graduate student’s research and for improvement of their communication skills. The Compton Graduate Research Travel award is open to Masters or doctorate level HHS graduate students involved in research under the guidance of faculty in the college of Health and Human Sciences. Each recipient will receive an award to cover up to $500 of travel expenses.

Eligibility

Any graduate students involved in research and under the direction of a faculty in the College of Health and Human Sciences who is attending a conference (preference given to students presenting a paper or poster) may apply if she/he meets the following eligibility requirements:

1. Applicants must be enrolled in a degree-seeking program within the College of HHS at Purdue University to be considered for this award.

2. The research for this presentation must have been done while the student was registered as a student in the College of Health and Human Sciences and involved in research in the laboratory of a faculty member from the College of Health and Human Sciences, and the content of the presentation must be directly related to the work in that laboratory.

3. Applicants may only submit for one conference per competition. Award money may only be applied towards the stated conference.

4. Priority will be given to students in the later stages of their graduate work, to those who have not previously attended a conference and to those who are first author and/or presenters of the work at the conference.

Deadline

Applications will be considered two times a year with application due dates of October 7, 2016; March 31, 2017. The dates of travel should be not more than 6 months before and not more than 6 months after the due date of the application.

Application

An electronic copy of the application using the attached form should be submitted as a single document to your unit/department Graduate Program Director by the deadline for the college level review by the Graduate Education Policy and Curriculum Committee.

Awardee Responsibilities

Should you be awarded a Compton Graduate Research Travel Award, you will be required to provide documentation of your travel in the form of receipts for travel (airline, gas, rental car, etc.), and, if possible, a picture of you at the conference so that we may publicize our support of your travels on our website or written material. You will be asked to sign a waiver so that your picture can be used for the purpose of promoting the research in the College. In addition, you will be required to submit to the College of Health and Human Sciences Associate Dean for Research a paragraph summarizing what you experienced at the conference and what you gained by your participation within 30 days from your return from the conference.
