

Ron Steuterman Retiring, Welcome Michael Ursem!

Last month Ron Steuterman announced that he is planning to retire. His last official day at Purdue will be January 5, 2018. Please join us in welcoming Michael Ursem as the new Managing Director for IN-MaC!

Michael brings 20 years of work experience, including work in industry and the university. He most recently served as business development manager for Purdue Research Foundation. His prior work includes serving as assistant director of sustainability for Purdue, Director for CLEAResult Consulting, including work in supply chain and business development, senior engineer for Saint-Gobain Corp. during which time he implemented a unique solution blending advanced robotic, autonomous vehicle and information technologies. He also worked at Owens-Illinois, Inc. as a mechanical engineer & project manager, developing materials handling solutions. Michael holds a BSME from University of Toledo, an MBA from Purdue, and a Project Management Certification from California Institute of Technology.

Michael can be reached at mursem@purdue.edu or 765.494.4437. His office is at the Indiana Manufacturing Institute, room 120.

We look forward to having a full time managing director for IN-MaC. Michael will spend a significant percentage of his time on marketing and business development while also picking up the day to day operational duties previously handled by Ron in his half time role with IN-MaC.
