Undergraduate Employment Opportunity Spring 2018 Semester

Job Description:

This position is for an undergraduate student who would like to become involved with the Purdue University Diversity Transformation Award (DTA) project titled “Four Directions: Building a Foundation for Native Scholars”. Four Directions is a project focused on indigenizing academia by exposing the Purdue University community to advanced scholars who are currently engaged in scholarship and/or research related to Native communities. Job duties will include survey implementation, attendance at various events hosted by the Tecumseh postdoctoral scholars, and data entry. This position is for the Spring 2018 semester but there is potential for the position to extend into summer 2018.

Qualifications:

- Undergraduate student at Purdue University
- Proficient in Microsoft Office
- Minimum of 10 hours per week availability

Compensation Rate:

- $10 per hour (10-20 hours/week)

Additional Information:

The Primary Investigator for the Four Directions project is Dawn Marsh (dmarsh@purdue.edu)

More information about the Four Directions Project can be found here:

https://www.purdue.edu/diversity-inclusion/dta_projects/project6.html
