With performances in Beijing China, the Macy's Thanksgiving

Day Parade in New York City and three times at the St. Patrick's Day Parade in Dublin, Ireland, just to name a few. The "All-American" Marching Band has also performed at numerous bowl games throughout Professor Gephart's tenure at Purdue. As well as a tenured full professor, Professor Gephart has served as a guest conductor, clinician, lecturer, and adjudicator both nationally and internationally.

PURA Annual Kickoff Luncheon – Wrap Up

The 2025 PURA Kickoff Luncheon was held on September 8th at the Courtyard Marriott in Lafayette. A delicious lunch, an interesting talk, and lively interaction with fellow retirees were enjoyed by 120 PURA members and special guests. The scheduled keynote speaker, Dr. Mark Lundstrom, had to make a last-minute Purdue business trip to Taiwan, but we were fortunate to have Dr. David Janes, Professor of Electrical and Computer Engineering, step in for Dr. Lundstrom. His presentation was an excellent balance of transistor development history, the fabrication of microchips, current application of microchip devices, and an overview on workforce development. Numerous door prizes and table decoration chrysanthemums were given away to attendees.

Betty Nelson was presented with the 2025 Betty M. Nelson Award. A different approach was taken this year to identify nominees for the Betty M. Nelson service award. We looked over the list of past winners and asked the question of who was missing. There was an obvious answer to that question. Betty had never received the Betty! Yes, the award was named in her honor back in 2004, but no one else can match the contributions over the years to Purdue retirees and PURA. Congratulations Betty!

PURA University Hall Tour – October 13 - Where the past meets the future

University Hall was to be the first building on the Purdue campus where classes began in the fall of 1874. It wasn't. It was the last of the six original buildings to open its doors in 1877. Today it is the only one of the original buildings still standing and the only one remaining partially funded by John Purdue who oversaw its early construction.

This fall, after extensive renovations restoring it to its original status as campus hub that will invite student connection and collaboration, the 34,200 square-foot building is reopening with architectural nods to the building's original look and feel and features such as cast-iron original columns that had been hidden within walls for more than sixty years. Its last remodeling was in 1961.

University Hall has been restored to its original purpose as a student hub and will also house College of Liberal Arts student services, classrooms, meeting, and office spaces. Its two-story central atrium that once housed the school library has been returned to life. The building was also once home to the university chapel and an office used by Presidents Emerson White, James Smart, and Winthrop Stone.

The Purdue University Retirees Association (PURA) is sponsoring a tour of the historic building at 1 p.m. October 13 before its official dedication on Homecoming Weekend, October 25. The tour is scheduled for fall break to minimize disturbance of students using the hall and to make parking available in nearby University Street Garage. After the tour, the university's founding donor John Purdue, who is buried in front of the hall, will come to life and talk about its history, location, and its special meaning to him, along with the story of his funeral that shutdown most of the community. Purdue served as contractor for University Hall and inspected construction of the stacked-stone foundation on the day he died, September 12, 1876.

Because of space limitations, the tour is open to the first twenty people to register with John Norberg, jbnorberg@purdue.edu.

Universities create the future and preserve the past. University Hall is the place where the past and future merge in the 21st century.

Campus Bus Service Changes

The University's CityBus contract for on-campus routes ended in August. While CityBus continues to provide local services to the campus community, the on-campus routes will be replaced by the Purdue Campus Transit (SP+) service. With the Purdue faculty/staff/retiree ID, retirees can ride the Purdue Campus Transit SP+ campus shuttles at no cost. Fares are required for off-campus transit around Greater Lafayette on CityBus with CityBus's Route 41 (The Connector) fare-free for all connecting campus and the downtown districts. For further details on the SP+ on-campus routes and service, visit <https://www.purduecampustransit.com>.
