November Meeting
“‘Can I Really Do This?’ Confronting Self-Doubt in Graduate School”

- Do you secretly worry that others will find out that you’re not as bright and capable as they think you are?
- Do you sometimes shy away from challenges because of nagging self-doubt?

We will discuss these questions with our speaker Dr. Suzanne Nielson, former department head of the Department of Food Science at Purdue and has been a faculty member in the same department for the past 30 years. She will discuss her professional experiences and share strategies for overcoming self-doubt in graduate school.

The ABE Graduate Women’s Group hosted a coffee hour and cookie decorating event on October 24. From the looks of it they had lots of fun! Check out the picture above. Great job, GWG Leads Emily and Erin, for your most well attended event this year.
Let Go of That Stress!

Want to check out Group X classes after seeing the demonstrations at our October monthly meeting? De-stress and recharge with various exercise opportunities – find what works for you! For a one-time fee, all classes on the schedule are included. Visit this link for more information about classes, fees, and how to sign up. (The fees are prorated to decrease as the semester goes on, too!)

Sandhill Cranes

Halloween means it's about that time of year to see the Sandhill Cranes! The cranes are starting to head south for the winter, and they make a stop to feed at the Jasper-Pulaki Fish & Wildlife Area in Indiana (about an hour away from Lafayette) on their way. The area has two observation towers that provide great viewing points to see these large and beautiful birds! Their count is now up to 8,280, and the first week of November is when they usually peak in numbers. Don’t miss this unique opportunity! More info: http://www.in.gov/dnr/fishwild/3109.htm
